

HOARDERS RUSH TO RETURN GOLD TO THEIR BANKS

Fear Of Severe Penalty Stings Them Into Action Today

BULLETIN
New York, Mar. 10.—(AP)—Gold returned this week to the Federal Reserve bank of New York up to the opening of business today totaled $65,000,000, it was learned at the bank.

Receipts of the metal yesterday, including gold and gold certificates deposited by individuals or by the commercial banks, amounted to $30,000,000.

New York, March 10.—(AP)—Gold was hot today. Sizzling hot. It burned fingers, seared consciences, and stung hoarders into sudden action.

By the thousands, all over the country, they hurried to banks to purge themselves of the yellow stain which, the government has decreed, will be a passport to prison.

In vanity bags, steel chests, trousseau pockets and armored cars it poured in—stacks of double eagles, $5 pieces that dangled on last Yuletide's tree, big bars of bullion.

Fear, reviving confidence, aroused conscience and newly acquired knowledge were sending it tumbling back, bankers said, like a glittering waterfall into government coffers.

Fright—which drove much of it into socks and vaults—was helping chute it back into Uncle Sam's keeping; fright (salutary and wholesome this time) at the prospect of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

One estimate predicted a billion dollars in hoarded gold would be back in a few days where it is most useful, reinforcing the rock of gold on which the currency is reared.

It was believed, in the absence of official figures, that perhaps $200,000,000 of gold has been restored to the Federal Reserve System throughout the country this week. Here are some reports from various Federal Reserve districts.

At St. Louis, Governor William McMartin of the Eighth District said more than half of the $1,350,000 withdrawn last week, was returned this week; $636,000 of it yesterday.

At New York recovery of gold since the first of the week totaled $65,000,000. Of this $30,000,000 poured into the Federal Reserve bank yesterday. As in other reserve districts it included gold returned by individuals and turned in by member banks in accordance with Treasury Secretary Woodin's regulations.

At Chicago, bank officials said a "noticeable amount" had been received and they expected an inpour to begin today. The Chicago Tribune said that between Feb. 24 and the President's proclamation withdrawing from the Reserve Bank soared to from $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 daily.

Govt. Prepares Drive
Everywhere the government prepared a drive to punish persistent hoarders. The Reserve Board called for the names of all who got gold in the past two years.

Gold trinkets and bullion were being exchanged at U. S. assay offices for cash. Some folk even tendered gold teeth and watches. The Federal Reserve system passed out Federal Reserve notes for gold and gold certificates.

The penalties against hoarding are heavier than for many grave felonies. Bankers expressed conviction they would be enforced. The "big hoarders" would be sought especially, they said.

One man phoned a New York bank yesterday. He said he had $700,000 in gold and wanted instructions on how to get rid of it. He got the instruction.

The "little fellows" were just as jittery. "Folks who had kept gold pieces as souvenirs parted from them with a sigh. A big business man, who had received the usual $5 in gold for attending a directors' meeting, read of the penalties against hoarders. His hand went toward his vest pocket, fingered the gold piece, dropped it quickly.

Gold was not today.

Banks In Brief

(By The Associated Press.)
Secretary Woodin of the Treasury said after a conference with President Roosevelt today that banks would reopen "just as soon as possible."

He said all Federal Reserve member banks desiring to reopen should apply for a license to the Secretary of the Treasury, the applications to be filed with the Federal Reserve bank in the district.

The presidential order last evening was for a nationwide holiday "until further proclamation," but indications were that the expanded currency would be available for a reopening on Monday.

Over the nation banks were doing a restricted business and hoarders' gold was pouring in both to them and the Federal Reserve.

Scrip was being circulated in many localities. In some instances it was being used to meet payrolls. Other banks were paying as much as 50 per cent on large payrolls.

Many savings banks were open. In New York most of them were allowing withdrawals up to $10 to meet urgent needs.

The Treasury's 16th regulation authorized all banking institutions to complete payment on any subscriptions for Treasury bills for which payment was due on March 6.

Foreign markets were firm. Commodity markets were less nervous than any day this week.

Treasury compilations placed the value of gold coin, bullion and gold certificates in circulation at the end of February at $1,220,961,686.

Federal Reserve figures as of yesterday placed the total circulation of money at $7,538,000,000.

ARREST CENTRAL ENGINEER; TRAIN CUTS FIRE HOSE

Dixon Firemen Busy Last Evening And This Morning

The Nicholas Bly property on North Galena avenue at the north edge of the city limits was damaged to the extent of about $800 last evening by fire which started from defective wiring. It is the third fire from this cause during the past month according to Chief William Mitchell. The department was called at 5:10 and found it necessary to lay a line of hose from a hydrant on McKinney street, about 700 feet being used.

The fire was under control when a south-bound Illinois Central freight train, with F. H. Hobert of Freeport in charge of the engine, passed over the Galena avenue crossing, cutting the line of hose. Patrolman Harry Jones attempted to stop the train at the Ottawa avenue crossing but the engineer blew the whistle and continued on his way. George Neitz stopped his car on the track at the Galena avenue crossing in an attempt to stop the freight train but without success, and was forced to drive off the tracks. Patrolman Glessner placed the engineer under technical arrest as the train stopped at the water tank in the Illinois Central yards on the south side of the river. Hobert is said to have informed the officer that he would report on his return trip.

BANKS WHICH SECURE PERMITS FROM SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY WILL BE PERMITTED TO OPEN AT ONCE UNDER SUPERVISION: PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT ASKS FOR MORE POWER

REDUCTIONS FOR SOME VETERANS IS CHIEF'S PLAN

Tells Congress He Will Balance Budget If Given Authority

Washington, March 10.—(AP)—President Roosevelt called upon Congress today for dictatorial power to reduce veterans costs and Federal salaries, promising that if it complies, "there is reasonable prospect" for a balanced budget within a year.

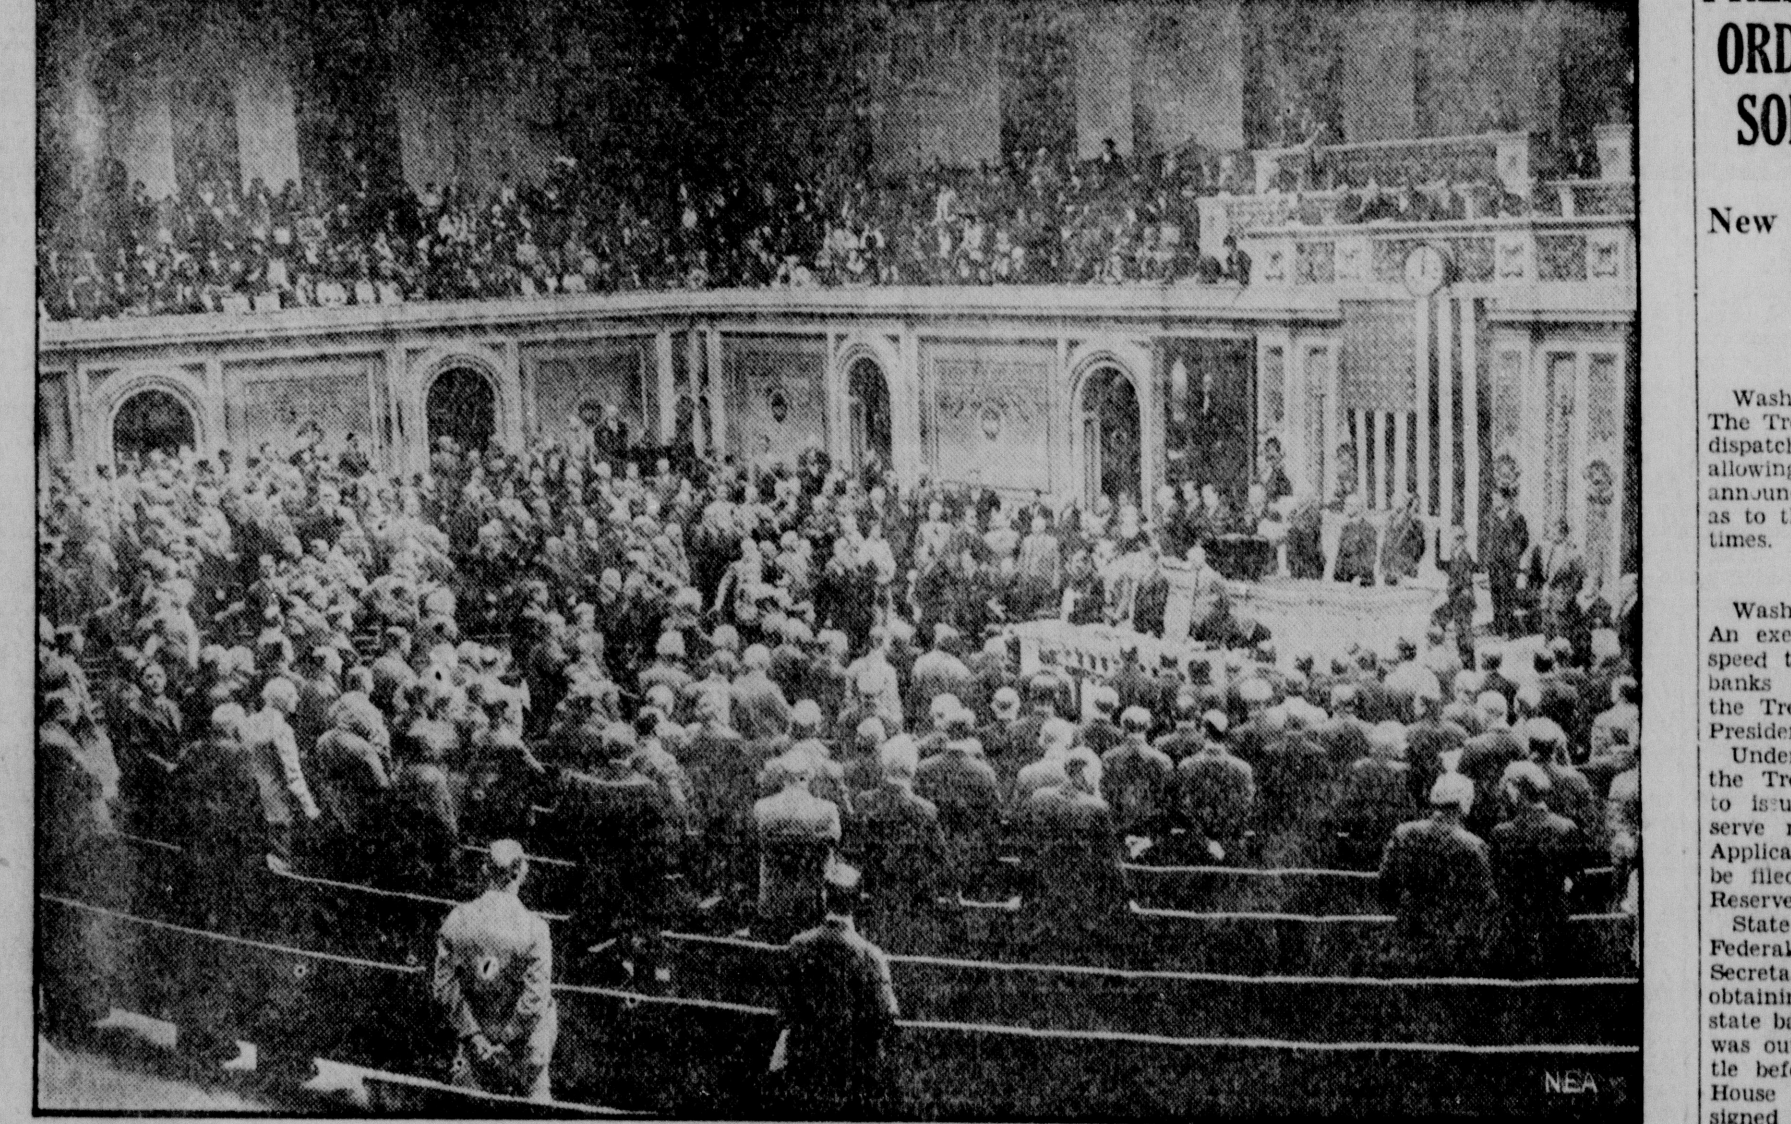

The Democratic phalanx of House and Senate, though not without dissent, set out at once to do his bidding, expecting thereby to have hundreds of millions saved the Treasury that the President said will have piled up a five billion dollar deficit by June.

"I am pointing a definite road," declared Roosevelt, and asked that he be allowed to take it "at once without even waiting for the beginning of the next fiscal year."

Dispute Is Certain
Even before the message could be read to Senate and House, threats of a determined dispute were evident. House Democratic leaders arranged to bind their preponderant majority in caucus to get the bill through by Wednesday, if possible.

On the Senate side, the Senate would recess until tomorrow afternoon.

AS CONGRESS ACTED ON ROOSEVELT BANK PROGRAM

Here is the scene in the House of Representatives as Congress convened in special session to give President Roosevelt dictatorial powers in the banking emergency and to pass his measure for increased currency in record time. The picture was taken just at noon as the House was called to order. Note the vacant seats on the Republican side of the House, and the crowded Democratic side.

ZANGARA SENTENCED

ASSASSIN WILL PAY PENALTY IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Shrieked Abuse Upon Florida Judge At Miami Today

Miami, March 10.—(AP)—Giuseppe Zangara, zealot and assassin, today was sentenced to death in the electric chair for the murder of Mayor Antonio J. Cermak of Chicago in his futile attempt to kill President Roosevelt.

Sentence was passed at 9:31 A. M. by Circuit Judge Uly S. Thompson who read the sentence from a prepared statement ending with "and may God have mercy on your soul."

There was a flurry in the courtroom after sentence was passed as Zangara denounced Judge Thompson and shouted "you give me electric chair."

"I'm not afraid that chair. You're one of capitalists. You're a crook man too. Put me in electric chair."

Governor To Fix Date
Deputies rushed Zangara from the courtroom as he shrieked the last sentence. Spectators were held in the courtroom until after the prisoner was removed to the elevator carrying him to jail.

Under the Florida law the execution date will be fixed by the Governor of the state and officials of the state penitentiary at Raiford.

Judge Thompson's sentence ordered that Zangara be confined in Dade county jail until his removal to Raiford and that he be kept there until the Governor sets the date of execution, the hour and the day to be set by the prison farm superintendent.

Court's Sentence
"And at such time and place punishment of death shall be inflicted upon you by causing to pass through your body a current of electricity sufficient in intensity to cause immediate death, and application of such current shall be continued until you shall be dead," the Judge ordered.

"And such punishment of death shall be executed within the walls of the permanent death chamber of the state prison of the state of Florida."

"x x x and may God have mercy on your soul."

The courtroom emptied quickly after the Italian who tried to kill the President of the United States was removed to his jail cell.

Illinois Factory Owners Confident

Chicago, March 10.—(AP)—Reports from Illinois factories showed that the bank holiday was being weathered without resorting to closing, decreasing payrolls, or lowering production, Thomas S. Hammond, president of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, said.

Hammond declared that most state manufacturers viewed the future with confidence and firm in a belief that the stress of present economic conditions was nearing an end.

In some instances he said employers were paying workers in checks of small denominations and that business men were accepting them in payment for purchases of necessities.

Basic Security Of Government Threatened, President Informs Congress In His Message Today

Washington, March 10.—(AP)—The text of President Roosevelt's economy message follows:

The nation is deeply gratified by the immediate response given yesterday by the Congress to the necessity for drastic action to restore and improve our banking system.

A like necessity exists with respect to the finances of the government itself which requires equally courageous, frank and prompt action.

For three long years the federal government has been on the road toward bankruptcy.

For the fiscal year 1931 the deficit was $422,000,000.

For the fiscal year 1932 it was $2,472,000,000.

For the fiscal year 1933 it will probably exceed $1,200,000,000.

For the fiscal year 1934, based on the appropriations bills passed by the last Congress and the estimated revenues the deficit will probably exceed $1,000,000,000 unless immediate action is taken.

Thus we shall have piled up an accumulated deficit of $5,000,000,000.

With the utmost seriousness I point out to the Congress the profound effect of this fact upon our national economy.

House Not In Order
It has contributed to the recent collapse of our banking structure. It has accentuated the stagnation of the economic life of our people. It has added to the ranks of the unemployed. Our government's house is not in order and for many reasons no effective action has been taken to restore it to order.

Upon the unimpaired credit of the United States government rest the safety of deposits, the security of insurance policies, the activity of industrial enterprises, the value of our agricultural products and the availability of employment.

The credit of the United States government definitely affects these fundamental human values. It, therefore, becomes our first concern.

FROZEN BODY OF AGED OREGONIAN FOUND THIS MORN

Believed E. D. Etnyre, 72, Was Victim Fatal Heart Attack

(Telegraph Special Service)
Oregon, Ill., March 10.—The body of Edward D. Etnyre, 72, clad only in night clothes and frozen, was found in the ground beneath his second-story bedroom window this morning shortly after 7 o'clock, the belief being that he had suffered a heart attack during the night, had managed to get to the window and open it, in order to get more air, and had fallen to the ground. A coroner's inquest was to be held this afternoon.

Mr. Etnyre, who was head of the E. D. Etnyre Mfg. Co. here, is survived by his widow; five sons, Robert, George, Horace, and Edward Jr. of Oregon; and Lee of Texas; a daughter, Harriet, at home; and several brothers and sisters.

State To Protect Insurance Funds
Chicago, Mar. 10.—(AP)—Legislative aid in the form of a bill to be introduced in the Illinois General Assembly next Tuesday for the protection of insurance interests in the state was promised by administration leaders.

Following a conference with Gov. Henry Horner yesterday State Insurance Commissioner Ernest Palmer said legislation was "napping" for the protection of the public as a whole.

He said it also would "maintain the stability of insurance, prevent undue preference among policyholders, and conserve income and assets."

The measure also was designed to protect "debtors under farm and home mortgages held by insurance companies" in that the Governor would be given authority to regulate foreclosure proceedings and extend payments dates.

CHICAGOANS PAY FINAL TRIBUTES TO SLAIN MAYOR

Thousands Line the City Streets Over Which Cortege Passes

Chicago, March 10.—(AP)—Between street lined with the city's thousands, the body of Antonio J. Cermak today was again borne on its circuitous path to the grave.

A funeral cortege that was blocks long and composed of city, state and federal officials, relatives and friends, soldiers and citizenry escorted the casket from city hall to the Chicago Stadium where the slain Mayor once achieved prominence in the national political arena.

The procession wound through the loop and over the two-mile route. It was a file of many colored segments—units of tan clad soldiers, navy men in blue, and the black chain of official automobiles.

Braving a biting march wind that drove the thermometer down to near-zero, citizens turned out en masse to pay their last gesture of reverence to their fallen leader.

Band of 200 Pieces
A 200-piece band played the dirges to which men have long carried their dead—Beethoven's "Pathétique" and Chopin's "Funeral March." The pulse of America's second city slowed to the music.

Officials said they could not remember when the populace so universally appeared for any occasion. Oldsters recalled the funeral of Carter Harrison, Sr., another World's Fair mayor who died from an assassin's bullet during the Columbian Exposition in 1893.

In the procession were men whose names carry weight in the nation's political circles. Ten members of the Democratic National Committee were there. In a car behind that bearing the mayor's family rode Governor Henry Horner of Illinois and Lieut. Col. Campbell Hodges, President Roosevelt's personal representative.

Other distinguished guests were Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, N. J., Judge William Costigan of New York, and John McCooey, of Brooklyn.

At the Chicago Stadium civic services were to be held over the casket, with clerics of three faiths speaking. Then the body was to be taken to Bohemian national cemetery for burial.

But early today, Secretary Woodin announced that the emergency banking act rushed through Congress yesterday and giving extraordinary powers to the President "makes possible the opening of banks on a sound basis, backed by an adequate supply of currency."

He said that the Treasury will not authorize any bank re-openings before tomorrow but already "has taken steps to secure information through proper authorities as to the condition of the various banks of the country."

Reasons For Delay
Another purpose of the delay is to permit the issuance of what Woodin called "an adequate supply of currency" to meet the demand.

Still another, said Senator Glass of Virginia, is to "give more state banks an opportunity to come to the shelter of the Federal Reserve system."

Two Chicago Banks Merged This Morn

Chicago, Mar. 10.—(AP)—Out of two affiliated Chicago banks arose today a single institution, which its officials said had assets amounting to $700,000,000. It would open they said with the lifting of the presidential proclamation.

The move was announced by Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank. He said the First National Trust & Savings Bank the state bank affiliate of the First National, had been merged into the large institution "in view of recent developments and the prospect that banks which are members of the Federal Reserve System may enjoy wider privileges."

At the same time Gov. Henry Horner announced an extension of the Illinois bank holiday through today and said the opening date would be made to conform with President Roosevelt's wishes.

PRESIDENT SIGNS ORDER TO PERMIT SOME REOPENINGS

New Currency Is Available In Sufficient Amounts

BULLETIN
Washington, March 10.—(AP)—The Treasury this afternoon began dispatch of numerous telegrams allowing banks to reopen, but no announcement was to be made here as to the names or locations or times.

BULLETIN
Washington, March 10.—(AP)—An executive order designed to speed the opening of the nation's banks under close supervision of the Treasury was issued today by President Roosevelt.

Under the order, the Secretary of the Treasury was given authority to issue licenses to Federal Reserve member banks to reopen. Applications for the licenses are to be filed with the district Federal Reserve banks.

State banks, not members of the Federal Reserve, will be allowed by Secretary Woodin to reopen after obtaining approval from the proper state banking authorities. His plan was outlined in a statement a little before he went to the White House with the executive order signed by the President.

At the Treasury, Secretary Woodin and a corps of assistants were continuing their work of checking and rechecking the list of banks that will be permitted to reopen.

Secretary Woodin said that applications for reopening of the Federal Reserve banks would be acted upon forthwith but that it must be ascertained that the banks reopened were capable of remaining open.

Washington, March 10.—(AP)—Federal Reserve member banks desiring to reopen will be required to apply to the district Federal Reserve banks for a license to be issued by the Secretary of the Treasury.

Secretary Woodin said today either an executive order or a Treasury regulation to this effect would be issued soon.

At the same time, he said, state banking authorities would be empowered to permit state banking institutions other than Federal Reserve members to perform all of their usual banking functions except those otherwise prohibited.

The statement came from Woodin after a morning spent in conference with the President and numerous financial experts over the manner in which the Treasury would proceed under the new banking law toward reopening the nation's banks.

New Currency Ready
When and how much new currency will be spread through the country were among the paramount questions today for which Treasury officials yet lacked definite answers.

The "when," however was one of the reasons President Roosevelt extended the banking holiday. The new money will be available when the banks reopen.

"How much" depended entirely upon the amount of government obligations, drafts, bills of exchange, and bankers' acceptances traded by the twelve Federal Reserve banks for the new currency.

The Presidential proclamation kept rigid restrictions clamped tightly about operations of the nation's banks until—possibly tomorrow—many of them can reopen for business as usual.

Given New Powers
Less than two hours before the restrictions were to become ineffective at midnight last night, President Roosevelt used the power Congress had just given to him by extending the bank holiday "until further proclamation."

That meant that for the time being banks can do only what they have been doing the last few days—enough business to prevent food shortages or keep people from going payless. There was no change immediately in the various regulations issued by the Treasury since Mr. Roosevelt's proclamation slapped on the gold embargo and started the money holiday last Sunday night.

But early today, Secretary Woodin announced that the emergency banking act rushed through Congress yesterday and giving extraordinary powers to the President "makes possible the opening of banks on a sound basis, backed by an adequate supply of currency."

He said that the Treasury will not authorize any bank re-openings before tomorrow but already "has taken steps to secure information through proper authorities as to the condition of the various banks of the country."

Two Are Held For Alleged Theft

Louis Kanzer of this city and Harold Crouse of Elmdale were taken in custody this morning and taken to the Sheriff's office at the county jail, following an investigation into a chicken theft Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Heinbaugh in Elmdale. Crouse was arrested by Sheriff Richardson and Deputy Miller and later the Sheriff and Chief Van Bibber took Kanzer in custody at his home.

The two, according to a statement said to have been made by Crouse at the county jail, went to the Heinbaugh home Wednesday night about 9:30 and took about 15 chickens from the poultry house. They were brought to Dixon where some of the birds were sold and five, which had suffocated, were taken to Kanzer's home and dressed. Crouse is said to have confessed his part in the theft and implicated Kanzer, who admitted making the trip to Elmdale Wednesday night and hauling the stolen chickens in his car, when he was questioned by State's Attorney Edward Jones. Both were being held at the county jail pending the action to be taken by the state's attorney this afternoon.

Warmer Weather Is Forecast Saturday

Chicago, March 10 (AP)—Frigid, near zero blasts were blowing over Lake Michigan and Chicago today when the sun rose in a cloudless sky.

The mercury stood at five degrees above zero at the Municipal Airport and sent Chicagoans scurrying to their daily tasks.

The Police of Suburban Niles Center reported an unofficial reading of two degrees below zero. Other suburbs reported varying temperatures ranging from zero to nine degrees above.

The United States Weather Bureau said the cold would remain throughout the day, but that Saturday would be warmer.

PRESIDENT SIGNS ORDER TO PERMIT SOME REOPENINGS

had nothing to say other than to let it be known he was pleased by the way Congress had put through his banking bill on opening day, and endorsed the steps he had taken.

NEW YORK BANKS READY
New York, March 10 (AP)—While gold continued to flow back into Federal Reserve coffers, the country today found itself still on limited banking rations, although there was hope here that "sound" banks would be allowed to resume normal business, perhaps by Monday.

Indefinite extensions of the holiday by President Roosevelt was coupled with assurance in New York that the big local commercial banks, closed a week ago after the heavy demands placed upon their cash were ready for the resumption of business.

The President's economy message, demanding emergency action for balancing the federal budget, was eagerly read, especially in Wall Street quarters which had long pointed out that maintenance of the government's credit upon an impracticable basis was perhaps the essential preliminary to ultimate recovery.

Meanwhile, it was estimated that more than $200,000,000 in gold had been re-deposited with the Federal Reserve banks of the country. Elsewhere hoarders swarmed to the gold tellers' windows of the local Reserve bank today, turning in their metal and certificates in exchange for currency.

Commodity markets were relatively quiet and there were few further price changes, so far as quotations on actual "spot" transactions were available.

Plans for reopening those markets, as well as the security changes, were held in abeyance pending reestablishment of normal bank facilities.

BANKS JOIN RESERVE
Chicago, March 10 (AP)—Banks of Chicago and of the Seventh Federal Reserve district moved almost en masse today to solidify their positions for early opening.

The Federal Reserve bank of Chicago reported a virtual rush for memberships from banks in Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Michigan. Three applications for memberships came from Chicago banks.

Gold coin and bullion increased its movement into the Federal Reserve currency exchange as consequence-stricken or law-fearing hoarders stood in lines before cashiers' windows.

The Federal Reserve declined to announce the amount of gold returning but in banking circles the total was estimated at about $3,000,000 in the last three days.

It was known that for some time preceding the national bank holiday, gold had been withdrawn by private persons at the rate of from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000 a day. Most of that returned was reported to have come to the Federal Reserve from banks.

Varying plans for meeting payrolls tomorrow came from the city's thousands of companies. Many had cash enough to pay a percentage of wages. Others split checks up into $5 and $10 denominations to facilitate cashing by neighborhood business places.

The Western Electric Company used the small check plan. For employees unable to obtain any cash, the company issued store credit tokens. Most of the concerns' 9,500 employees ate lunches on credit in the company's restaurant.

Troop 89 Planning Hike On Saturday

Members of Troop 89, Boy Scouts are planning a big hike Saturday, the program being outlined at the regular meeting held at the Christian church Tuesday evening.

The Scouts are to meet at the church at 8:30 Saturday morning and may bring anything they desire in the way of "eats," except those who wish to pass cooking tests.

Tuesday evening's meeting proved to be one of the best this year. In the Troop inspection feature, the Black Bear patrol won first, Silver Fox second, Flying Eagle, third, Timber Wolf, fourth and Flaming Arrow fifth. Each week at this meeting inspection test will be held for five minutes. The winning patrol receives an award which remains in their possession for one week or until the next inspection.

As a special feature of the meeting Rev. James H. Barnett gave a very interesting talk on the three Scout laws, courteous, brave and reverent. This was followed by several stories of the World War and a description of actual scene witnessed by Rev. Barnett during his service.

The different patrols of the troop provided a program in which they were matched in Scout tests. The Black Bear patrol lead the field in the total number of points scored. The meeting closed, the Scouts gathering about an artificial Scout camp fire with the lights extinguished, and the closing service given.

EUROPE SEETHES WITH REPORTS OF SECRET ENTENTE

Arms Shipment, Plot Of Nazis, Also Rumored On Continent

New York, March 10 (AP)—Discussion of secret agreements, and arms shipment, dictatorships, and return to power of a former monarch keeps Europe in a turmoil.

Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania have revived the Little Entente.

An arms shipment from Italy to Hungary, routed by way of Austria, attracted the attention of the Little Entente nations and resulted in representations from France and Great Britain.

Austria, with cries for union with Germany voiced in that country, was placed under a dictatorship.

Poland, admittedly alarmed by the developments at the free city of Danzig, strengthened its garrison at Westerplatte, the entrance to the free city port.

Allege Monarchist Plot
Talk has been revived in Germany, rapidly being brought under the complete control of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's Nazis, of a movement to restore a Hohenzollern to the throne.

Announcement of the revival of the Little Entente was made during European discussion of the Italian arms shipment.

Such a shipment, was alleged to be a violation of the Treaty of St. Germain, which forbids arming of nations defeated in the World War.

A promise to return the arms, which Italy declared consisted only of old guns sent to Hungary for repair, appeared to have brought about a solution of the dispute.

An additional detachment of Polish marines was sent to Westerplatte, the main ammunition base for the Polish army, after a survey of the Danzig situation. Danzig is under League of Nations supervision.

Claim Treaty Breach
The senate of the free city described the act as a flagrant treaty breach, but the semi-official Polish newspaper Iskra at Warsaw said the reinforcements were necessary.

The victory last Sunday of the National Socialist (Nazi) party of Adolf Hitler in Germany was soon followed by manifestations in Austria for "Anschluss," or union with the Reich. Alfred Frauentheil, leader of the Austrian Nazis, figured prominently in the press.

This movement, following closely upon the resignation of the three ranking officers of the Austrian parliament after a dispute over railway workers' wages, resulted in the granting by President Wilhelm Miklas to Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of dictatorial powers. Censorship was established and political demonstrations were banned. Troops were mobilized.

BASIC SECURITY OF GOVERNMENT IS THREATENED

cern to make secure the foundation. National recovery depends upon it.

Too often in recent history liberal governments have been wrecked on rocks of loose fiscal policy. We must avoid this danger.

Emergency Exists
It is too late for a leisurely approach to this problem. We must not wait to act several months hence. The emergency is accentuated by the necessity of meeting great refunding operations this spring.

We must move with a direct and resolute purpose now. The members of the Congress and I are pledged to immediate economy.

I am, therefore, assuming that you and I are in complete agreement as to the urgent necessity, and my constitutional duty is to advise you as to the methods for obtaining drastic retrenchment at this time.

I am not speaking to you in general terms. I am pointing out a definite road.

The last Congress enacted legislation relating to the reorganization and elimination of executive agencies, but the economies thus to be effected are small when viewed in the light of the great deficit for the next fiscal year. They will not meet the pressing needs of our credit situation.

Provision for additional savings is essential, and therefore I am asking the Congress today for new legislation laying down broad principles for the granting of pensions and other veteran benefits, and giving to the Executive the authority to prescribe the administrative details.

Complications Involved
We are unanimous in upholding the duty of the government to care for those who suffer in its defense and for their widows and orphans. The application, however, of this great principle to large numbers of people involves complications—so great that it is almost impossible to draw legislation with sufficient flexibility to provide substantial justice in varying situations.

The proposed legislation states the principles and, limited by them, permits the Executive to draw the lines of differentiation necessary to justice.

In accord with the same purpose of substantial justice I request also the enactment of legislation relating to the salaries of civil and military employees of the government.

This would repeal the existing furlough plan, substituting therefor a general principle and authorizing the Executive to make application of this principle.

The proper legislative function is to fix the amount of expenditure, the means by which it is to be raised and the general principles under which the expenditures are to be made.

Measures Flexible
The details of expenditure particularly in view of the great present emergency can be more wisely and equitably administered by the Chief Executive. The flexibility of the measures which I am proposing is not only practical but proceeds along the road of constitutional government.

Such economies which can be made will, it is true, affect some of our citizens; but the failure to make them will affect all of our citizens. The very stability of our government itself is concerned and when that is concerned the benefits of some must be subordinated to the needs of all.

When a great danger threatens our basic security it is my duty to advise the Congress of the way to preserve it. In so doing I must be fair not only to the few but to the many. It is in this spirit that I appeal to you.

If the Congress chooses to vest me with this responsibility it will be exercised in spirit of justice to all, of sympathy to those who are in need and of maintaining inviolate the basic welfare of the United States.

I ask that this legislation go into effect at once without even waiting for the beginning of the next fiscal year. I give you assurance that if this is done there is reasonable prospect that within a year the income of the government will be sufficient to cover the expenditures of the government.

HOPE IS THEME OF DR. STONE'S SECOND SERMON

Last Of Pre-Lenten Union Meetings To Be Held This Eve

The second of a series of three addresses was brought to a large audience at the Methodist church last evening by Dr. J. Timothy Stone. The service was presided over by Rev. J. A. Barnett with the Christian church choir assisting and Miss Jane Bradford at the organ. The choir furnished a special rendition of the old hymn, "Holy, Holy, Holy."

The theme of Dr. Stone's address was "Hope." His scripture was found in Romans 15:13—"Now the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, that ye may abound in hope, through the power of the Holy Ghost."

In part he said: We need faith and love but we need hope just now. In the New Testament we hear a good deal more about what we should and should not do than in the Old Testament. The commands of the New Testament call us to new lines of thought. We are told to covet the best gifts. Paul says these are Faith, Hope, and Love.

God can never use a discouraged soul. If you are discouraged God can't use you. It is a very impractical sort of thing. We are here not to get all we can out of life but to make others happy. Do not be in a hurry but be diligent. Trust God to weave into the web of life your little thread. One day with God is as a thousand years and a thousand years with God are as one day. Look out and not in. Thank God

THE LITTLE THINGS OF HOME
LOVE the little tasks of home That come with sunny days; The training of truant vines; That have such willful ways;

The fashioning of perky bows For aprons made of swiss; To give the tea time on my porch An air like clematis;

The sifting of the clean, white sand Beside the plum tree's place; That baby's head and pinafore May borrow shadow lace.

The capturing of berries red In sugared traps of glass; That I may keep their scarlet glint To please my little lass—

All these I love, though some may count Them small and simple things Because they flutter in my heart And feather lifting wings.

Spring's Informal Formality

(From George Bernard Co., New York)

BY JOAN SAVOY
NEA Service Writer
Informality is the order of the day at formal things this year, following the precedent set by the new First Lady of the Land.

You'll need a long-sleeved dinner dress type of costume for parties now. Particularly for Sunday nights and for other social occasions when formerly you might have worn evening things.

Black is a grand first choice for anyone who wears it, and everybody can with the right make-up. Black gowns that are made right are by all odds the most wearable; most distinguished of any. Particularly glamorous is a black marquisette Sunday night dress which twinkles with little stars embroidered on it, made of crystals and rhinestones.

It has sleek princess lines, with a bit of a train, and sleeves of the marquisette which taper down to tight cuffs, all starry with glitter. There is a lovely, graceful capelet of the starred marquisette which makes a soft, high neckline and swings to fashion a rippling hipline cape in the back.

A new dinner gown in the latest tailored manner is made of acetate crepe in a new, flattering pale blue. Its body-lines are moulded and intricate, with a sash bow of the same material encrusted on the body of the dress, above the waistline in an Empire touch, and with the ends swinging loose in a single panel.

It has a square neckline from which a back cape flows over the top of the sleeves to give an epaulet effect. The front of the neckline is absolutely plain.

The sleeves, which are long and tight, are further slenderized by having a panel of the embroidery, done with rhinestones in varied sizes, in an exquisite all-over design.

Hints for Homemakers

By using a screen like this you can have a little breakfast nook in your kitchen. You can make the screen yourself of pressed wood boards and decorate it to suit your own taste.

The custard pie will be an even, nice brown when baked if a little sugar is sprinkled over the top just before putting into the oven.

Mrs. Louis Pitcher to Attend Conference Women Voters, Mch. 21-22

Mrs. Louis Pitcher, member of the Dixon organization, plans to attend the legislative conference to be held by the Illinois League of Women Voters at Springfield, Mar. 21st and 22nd. This is not a new venture for the League, as these conferences are part of its established program, and have always been splendidly attended. This year there are so many important measures in which the League is interested, that a large attendance from all over the state is expected.

The program, which has been outlined by Mrs. B. F. Langworthy of Winnetka, member of the state board, indicates how very full and interesting the two days promise to be.

The chaotic conditions existing today have made everyone realize more than ever the necessity of becoming acquainted with our governmental structure, our representatives and legislatures in particular. We have even come to the realization that, after all, the federal government does not touch our lives as closely as do the state and local governments. Consequently, this conference seems even more valuable than usual this year.

The planned attendance at the House and Senate sessions and at committee hearings has the twofold advantage of familiarizing women with the method of handling and presenting certain bills, and, also, of acquainting them with the actual bills themselves. It is expected that some League measures will be given committee hearings on these days. In addition, arrangements have been made for those in attendance to call upon their own legislators and upon the Governor. The officers and women members of the General Assembly have been invited as guests at the dinner on Tuesday night.

SPENDING WEEK END AT HEMMEN HOME
Mrs. John Ruet and son John of Chicago are spending the week end at the home of Mrs. Fred Hemmen.

MISS EUSTACE ENTERTAINED AT DINNER
Miss Annie Eustace entertained guests at dinner last evening.

A great-hearted man, Mr. Everett Reese! "Everett Reese of Shandon, O., took and raised forty-seven children. Only two of them were failures; forty-five were a success. He gave a college education to those who wished it. These children were the incorrigibles from the Children's Home, Dalaware home, Lancaster farm in Ohio, and one from Marysville, O. In our opinion his success was that he took them into his family as one of the family, placed every one on his honor, and gave each one sufficient spending money."

THE CAMERAMAN—HISTORIAN.

One of the hardest things for a reader of history to do is to realize that the figures which appear on the pages before him were once real flesh-and-blood like himself.

Time and fame have a way of freezing men into heroic attitudes. The past looks like a series of tableaux, a group of heroic paintings in which everything is arranged just so. It contains no blood, no human emotions.

Washington remains eternally rigid, posing in the bow of a boat as it crosses the Delaware amid the ice; the Declaration of Independence gets signed by a collection of well-dressed gentlemen who kindly faced the artist and arranged their ruffles—and passed into eternity that way. It is hard to believe that these folk lived and moved about and got hungry and felt tired as ordinary people do.

So history becomes unreal; and a speculative man is apt to wonder, now and then, if perhaps the moving picture camera won't introduce a welcome change.

A century from now people who study the doings of this generation won't have to depend on paintings. Our great men won't be figures from a portrait gallery; they will be human beings in front of a new camera, some of them slightly smitten by stage fright, none of them frozen into colorful immobility. Our city crowds, our farmers, our armies—they, too, will move and laugh and be real.

And that will be a tremendous advantage. What wouldn't we give, today, for instance, for a good newspaper of the Boston tea party, an action shot showing a wagon train heading west to the Ohio Purchase, an informal picture of the Constitutional Convention, an exposure or two of the Lincoln-Douglas debates or the building of the Union Pacific railroad?

If we had such things we wouldn't be so apt to credit our ancestors with impossible virtues. We should realize that heroes like Washington and Jackson and Webster were mortal men like Coolidge and Hoover and Roosevelt, that the ragged Continentals were probably quite as irreverent and profane as the A. E. F., and that, in short, the Americans of the golden age were blood brothers to ourselves.

CITIZENS MUST BACK ROOSEVELT.

The most important duty facing the American people today is that they give complete and unqualified support to President Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt began his administration by using war powers. He was entirely justified in doing so. Today's emergency is as critical as any war could be.

But if we are to meet this emergency as a war, and if our president is to exercise broad wartime powers in attacking it, there is a responsibility on us as citizens—to form a united column in support of the president.

In time of war there is no room for partisanship, no room for protracted debate, no room for petty criticism. That is equally true of the present emergency. What the President does he must do quickly and decisively. We, the ordinary citizens of the land, must help him.

The simple fact of the matter is that no American who wants his own lot to improve can do anything else than hope for the success of the Roosevelt administration. If Mr. Roosevelt fails, we all fail. Whether we like it or not, we are bound to his star. In sheer self-interest we must help it to rise.

That this puts a colossal responsibility on President Roosevelt's shoulders goes without saying. But this responsibility we share. We must unite behind him—and, in that way, help him to help all of us.

BRITAIN DECLARES FOR PEACE.

It is small wonder that England's House of Commons burst out in hearty cheers when Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon declared categorically that England is not going to get involved in any far eastern war.

Reminded that the present crisis is the most serious since 1914, Sir John asserted:

"The great difference between 1914 and now is that in no circumstances will this government authorize this country to be a party to the Sino-Japanese struggle."

The horrors of the World War are not so far away that the people of England cannot easily remember them, and their relief at this unequivocal declaration is perfectly natural. And that leads one to wonder if similar cheers would not greet a similar announcement at Washington.

It is time that the world learn that, by the side of the Paris that amuses itself, there is the real France, the France that labors, suffers, strives, prays and aspires.—Prof. Raoul Allier, president of the French Protestant Theological Seminary in Paris.

Italian women don't want to vote; they're not fighting for political expression, for they can always direct the vote through the home.—Carla Orlando, daughter of Italy's war-time premier.

The United States can for a specific purpose and a limited time associate itself with other powers, but when that purpose has been served, the United States must inevitably return to its former impartiality.—Walter E. Edge, retiring U. S. ambassador to France.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Beetle had enormous wings and they were funny looking things. Wee Windy was excited as he whizzed right through the air.

"Cling to my head," the beetle cried. "Then you'll be real safe on this ride. I'm going to do some sailing and some dips, if you don't care."

"Go right ahead," cried Windy. "I feel right at home up in the sky. I don't want to hit the ground."

"An airplane ride I never fear, but, gee, I feel much safer here. Don't fret about me, Mister Beetle. Keep on sailing around."

A big cloud then came floating near. The bug said, "I'll get out of here. That cloud might be full of rain, and we might get all wet."

So to the ground they quickly flew. The next thing that the Tinies knew, brave Windy was explaining it was the best ride he'd had yet.

Then little Duncy jumped and cried, "Oh, please take me out for a ride!" The beetle looked up toward the sky and saw the cloud had passed.

"I guess it is all right now," said he. "Hop on and you can go with me." As Duncy climbed aboard he said, "Now, please don't go too fast."

But, when the beetle was in air, he gave poor Duncy quite a scare. He laughed aloud and said "I guess you think this trip is grand."

"But, listen, I have captured you! Do you know what I'm going to do? Don't worry, you will soon find out, when you see where we land."

And then the bug swooped to the ground. A lot of beetles gathered around and grabbed poor Duncy. "You are a prisoner," a beetle cried.

"Don't think that you can get away. We'll have a war dance, right today." The next thing that poor Duncy knew, his hands and feet were tied.

Sidelights In News In Capital
Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — Senators stand a good chance of having a much easier time of it, parliamentarily speaking, in the future than they have had during the last four years.

Neither Vice President Garner, nor the new president pro tempore is rated as strict a disciplinarian as have been Curtis and Moses of New Hampshire.

Curtis never relaxed his efforts to keep perfect order. At times it seemed that he would bang a hole in his desk with his gavel.

It didn't go so well with some of the senators, either. George Norris of Nebraska turned on him once and spoke his mind.

FORENSIC AMENITIES—

It was during the debate on ousting Dave Barry as sergeant-at-arms, Norris and Glenn of Illinois were arguing in the rear of the chamber in anything but parliamentary fashion. Curtis' resounding gavel almost drowned out their voices.

"Does the senator from Nebraska yield?" shouted Curtis.

"No," bellowed Norris in return. "No, not even to the chair!"

Moses, the president pro tempore, while not as severe as Curtis, still had the knack of irritating the frayed nerves of senators while in the chair. His sarcastic and bantering tone frequently got him into trouble. Once he nagged Ashurst of Arizona so hard that the big Arizonian came back with a hot retort.

Ashurst had previously questioned the right of Moses to make certain statements while in the chair, demanding that he let some one else preside if he wanted to engage in debate.

It angered Moses and he started out to get revenge. Thereafter before he made any ruling he would preface it with the statement, "If the senator from Arizona will permit the chair, he rules....."

WARMING UP—

At first Ashurst ignored him. But when Moses kept repeating that phrase before every ruling the remainder of the afternoon, Ashurst "got sore." Finally he jumped to his feet and blazed out at Moses:

"The senator from Arizona wants that stopped. He has been sitting quietly in his chair on the floor doing nothing but listening to this debate. There is no reason for the present occupant of the chair to single him out for ridicule."

While Vice President Garner earned quite a reputation in the house as a gavel breaker, he is not inclined to be a disciplinarian. What Curtis would have considered disorder in the senate, Garner may not even notice—not after having tried to keep order among 435 men in the house.

Everyday Religion

ARE WE HYPOCRITES?

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

My late friend, Samuel Crothers, whose witty wisdom was so radiant compared our high ideals to a polished brass poker which stands beside the fireplace. The poker shines beautifully in its stand, but one would commit a great social blunder who actually used it to poke the fire with. When we need to do anything to the fire, we reach around the corner and pick up a dirty crooked iron poker and stir the fire.

Just so, said my friend, we keep our high ideals highly polished, but when we need to get some work done in a hurry we employ old tools covered with the soot of a dirty world. Our public principle is, "Love your enemy," but the tool we actually use is more direct. "Give it to him in the neck." We put in our show-window "Love never faileth," but our working code is, "Better try force," as if we are unaware of the absurdity.

Long ago Ruskin pointed out the same amazing discrepancy. The form which infidelity has taken today, he said, is hitherto unheard of. No age ever before boldly declared that its religion was good for show "but would not work. Other people have denied their gods, but they did it bravely. We have put the matter in an entirely new light; we say that the laws of the Devil are the only practical laws."

There is a God, we say; no doubt about it, only He cannot rule. His orders will not work. Besides, He is quite satisfied with a respectful, rhythmical repetition of His writ in a ritual. To act upon it would be dangerous under the circumstances and He did not intend us to do so. His laws are merely a form of poetical language.

The Psalmist said that the fool said in his heart there is no God; but we say there is a foolish God. Are we hypocrites? No indeed; at least not consciously so. The problem is not as simple as that. True, the world is full of tall talk about high ideas, the trouble is we have no technique for working them out. Let anyone try,—honestly and sincerely—to bridge the huge gap between the two, and he will discover the difficulty. It is the distance between high ideals and hard facts, but we must not give up.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

U. S. NEEDS A "SHOT"

March 10, 1933

Editor of The Telegraph:

On the 17th day of February, 1933, I had the pleasure of writing an article on economics, which you were kind enough to print in these columns. In effect my article advocated the issuance of two billion dollars in currency backed by the IDLE gold in the United States Treasury. I outlined in detail measures which would bring prosperity from it lamented hiding place.

I have had scores of comments, (favorable and otherwise), most of them, however, were favorable. Several interested "observers" have even been so kind as to clip various articles from newspapers and send (or hand) them to me. One article impressed me greatly. It was an article written against inflation by Alfred E. Smith, former Governor of New York State. Mr. Smith said "inflation is merely a shot in the arm." I must say Mr. Smith was right when he said it would have that effect. Let me state here and now that it is what we NEED!

A "shot in the arm" is Mr. Smith's common way of saying "hypodermic medication." Now, according to Funk & Wagnalls New Standard Encyclopedia of Universal Knowledge, prepared under the direction of Frank H. Vizetelly, eminent scientist, "hypodermic medication is the induction of medicines beneath the skin, with a hypodermic syringe. This method is preferred to that of giving them by the mouth, particularly when a RAPID result is essential."

The United States today, is a sick nation. It NEEDS a "shot in the arm," just as a sick man must be given a hypodermic to aid him in fighting disease or even death itself.

Additional currency is just the stimulant we need, and from all appearances, at last, the "higher-ups" are beginning to see it (or admit it). Secretary of Treasury Woodin issued a statement yesterday declaring $2,400,000,000 could be issued on our IDLE gold (as I said in my article three weeks ago.) Secretary Woodin gave us his reason for the issuance of that sum in the following words: "The banks actually hold about $220,000,000 MORE gold than they have up as security for currency."

It is my belief that if the new administration is sincere in its oft-expressed wish to help the people, they will put that idle gold to work.

An Explanation

Recently a fellow-worker asked, "How will more money affect me, personally?" The answer is: With more money in circulation, prices would rise and markets would rise, and there would be an incentive for people to INVEST their money. They will not invest money in a declining market. It is invested money which is the backbone of industry—not hoarded money. When invested money brings in dividends and the investor profits from his various enterprises, he will invest more money—either extending his present operations or building new industries—either case would cause more employment and higher wages. Thus, my friend, the wheel of industry keeps moving. Workers will be paid better, and there will be more work. But, remember this, wages cannot rise until the people who have money invested in industry, receive at least a sum equal to the interest on their investment.

A BOOK A DAY

The big news of the month for mystery story fans is the publication of "Celebrated Cases of Charlie Chan," by Earl Derr Biggers, in which five of the famous Charlie Chan detective stories are gathered together under one roof, so to speak.

These novels are, "The House Without A Key," "The Chinese Parrot," "Behind That Curtain," "The Black Camel" and "Charlie Chan Carries On." They are all "made-A" stories and Charlie Chan's just about the most ingratiating fictional detective in existence—mystery fan, here is your big chance!

An entertaining new mystery is "Hide and Go Seek" by S. Colver Harris. In this one a young lady checks in at a quiet residential hotel in New York just in time to get all involved in the murder of a fair roomer; and the hotel owner, his dignified mother, the hotel manager and the manager's wife all seem to be involved in the affair. The plot is cleverly constructed, the book is neatly written and the end is a nice surprise. Could you ask for more?

Still another good one is "The Case of the Velvet Claws," by E. C. Rieu. A hard-boiled and cynical lawyer is called by a client to fix a case of blackmail and immediately gets tangled up in the murder of the lady's husband—gets so tangled up that he almost goes to the chair for it. The story moves at something better than a mile-a-minute clip, and this very tough lawyer is, if not a thing of beauty, at least is a joy forever.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lehman and daughters Gladys and Vera spent the week end with relatives in Elgin.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Schoof of Dixon called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Schoof Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pyburn spent Sunday with relatives in Harmon, Sunday.

One I Love

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JANET HILL breaks her engagement with ROLF CARLYLE after learning he has been going out with BETTY KENDALL, a society girl and niece of a member of the company for which he works. Janet is secretary to BRUCE HAMILTON, advertising manager of Every Home Magazine, and Rolf is employed in an advertising office. Janet is still much in love with Rolf but he has declared their engagement didn't "mean anything" and accused her of not really wanting to marry him because she has insisted on postponing the marriage until they have saved some money.

Janet is lonely and unhappy. One night on a street car she meets JEFFREY GRANT, young engineer who has recently moved to the rooming house where she lives. A few nights later MOLLY LAMBERT, who lives across the hall, urges Janet to come on a "blind date." Janet declines, then agrees when Molly declares Janet should show some pride instead of mourning over a "two-timer who let her down."

Janet dresses hastily and Molly loans her a coat. A call from downtown indicates that the two men are waiting.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XIV
JANET, hurrying down stairs, caught a glimpse of a man's tan topcoat. No, there were two of them. A tan coat and a darker one.

The taller of the two men stood back. The other—slim, wiry, with dark hair and dark eyes—said, "Hello, baby. O. K.? Want you to know my friend, Mr. Mullins. Frank, this is Mollie, the girl friend."

Mollie Lambert said, "Oh, Mr. Mullins, this is certainly a pleasure! Al's always talking about you—aren't you, Al?" She turned toward Janet. "And here's somebody else for you to meet! Miss Hill—Mr. Mullins. You know Al, don't you, Janet? No? Oh, excuse me. This is Mr. Schildner. Well, we didn't keep you boys waiting, did we?"

Good-natured Mollie chattered on. Janet put her hand into the outstretched hand of the tall young man in the dark coat and said, "How do you do?"

Her first glance had been reassuring. Mr. Mullins was, as Mollie had said, rather nice looking. He was tall, not fat but rather square-jawed. His light hair had a reddish cast and his eyes were an off shade of blue. The only thing Janet didn't like about his looks was the small, pale red mustache perched on his upper lip. A mustache makes some men look older and more dignified but for some reason this mustache had exactly the opposite effect. It made Mr. Mullins look almost juvenile, which was odd, considering his size. The mustache was too small or too wide or something else was wrong with it.

Mr. Mullins shook Janet's hand and said that he was certainly glad to know her. Al Schildner cut in to exclaim cheerily, "How about it? Are we all set? Then let's step on it!"

Mollie's "boy friend" wore his brow furrowed at a jaunty angle. He was only a little taller than Mollie and no one in the world would have called him handsome. Still there was something engaging about his irregular features. He had a quick way of looking at the person to whom he spoke and his words came in short, jerky phrases.

It was Al's car in which they were to ride. He called it "the bus" and ushered them out of the house.

Four musicians, on a raised platform at the far side of the room were beating out their meticulous rhythm, swaying as though hypnotized by the blatant melody. About a dozen couples were dancing in the square, uncarpeted space reserved for them. Only about a third of the tables were occupied.

Al had reserved a table and the headwaiter led them toward it. It was near the orchestra—too near Janet thought but Mollie was obviously pleased.

"Some class to this joint!" Mullins commented enthusiastically. A waiter presented menus and Mollie caught Janet's arm just before they entered. "Having a good time?" she whispered.

Janet smiled and nodded. She wasn't but there was no reason for Mollie to know that. Even if she were miserable she didn't want Mollie to know it. She had sworn to make the whole world believe that she was gay and care-free tonight!

INSIDE the restaurant they were greeted with the strains of a new fox trot. Reigals boasted dinner music and dancing. The dining room was a large square with walls intended to imitate Spanish tiling. There was an abundance of dark red and pale green in the decorations. There was a dark red carpet, red leather chairs and red glasses on the crisp white tablecloth.

DIXON ELKS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP IN BOWLING LEAGUE

Victory In One Game With Printers Gave Them The Flag

The Dixon Elks bowling team finished the 1932-1933 season just one game ahead of the Rogers Printing Company, to win the City League bowling championship. In order to finish first in standings, the Elks had to win at least one game from the Rogers team, which they did to the tune of 968 to 893. The Printers came back however, and won the second game by a 2-pin margin, rolling 950 to 948 for the Elks. The last game went to the Printers also, bowling a big team count of 1025 their last game against 893 for the Elks.

Clary Breaks Record
Frank Clary of the Elks team rolled a splendid series of 657, collecting counts of 211, 231, 215, his 231 count taking high single game honors for this match. His series of 657 is a new individual series record and stands as high for the 1932-1933 City League tournament which finished this week.

Clary also boosted his average to 188.37, and finished the season in second place in individual averages, his games rolled were 48.

Edward Worley totaled 582 to win the individual average title with an average of 192.6 for the full 60 games rolled.

Oliver D. Rogers finished the season with an average of 180.35 and cops third position in individual standings, with 57 games rolled.

Robert Harridge is possessor of fourth place in averages for the season with 180.30 for 57 games.

Jim Devine will be credited with fifth place in individual averages ending the league season with 178.16 for 54 games.

Walnut Grove Forfeit
Beier's Loafers won three games from the Walnut Grove Products by forfeiture. Bowling the last time as a team, they accumulated games of 948, 956, 908 totaling 2814 for team count. Leo Miller of the Beier team proved himself tough for the coming doubles tournament, by collecting counts of 200, 212, 198 for a series of 610. Hamill is paired with Miller in the coming doubles tournament.

The Walnut Grove team finished third in standings.

Dixon Fruit Co. Win Two
The Dixon Fruit Co., won the second and third contest with the Vaile & O'Malley Clothiers and won their right to fourth place in the City League finals. High single game for this match was rolled by Carl Buchner with 202 in his last game. High series count went to Frank McClanahan of the Fruit Co., five.

Vaile & O'Malley Win Two
In a postponed series rolled the same night the Vaile & O'Malley team stepped up and showed the Fruit Company team they could win two also, rolling up counts of 1008, 909, 861, 2778, against 878, 870, 918, 2666 for the Fruit Company boys.

Lloyd Duffy bowled a nice series of 636 which stood the bombardment for that night for series honors.

Jack Darby was the sharpshooter for this match with a big count of 234 his first game.

Hear Bowling Broadcast
Many local bowlers reported hearing Bob Newhall, the Mail Dixon sportsman, present his Bowling flash-back program, reproducing the scene at the 1932 American Bowling Congress Tournament in Detroit, where Dayton and Milwaukee bowlers staged a sensational rally for the five man team championship and its accompanying cash prize of $1000. Dayton finally took the money, with a team score of 3108 even though the Milwaukee team did have a newspaperman-bowler, Billy Sixty. Billy turned in 625 for his team and this was tied by another man on the team, but the Milwaukee total was seven points short of the Dayton score.

This year's congress will bring together in Columbus some 10,000 bowlers.

LET THEM BOO, ETC.
Dr. F. C. Allen, athletic director of the University of Kansas, is disturbed about booing at basketball games. Dr. Allen views with alarm the effect of the reverberating boo upon the scholarly intelligence of youth.

The doctor wants a law passed, empowering the referee to call a technical foul on the home team when the crowd begins to boo. Though boos would lose the ball game in this way, and it would be a triumph for good, clean fun, or something.

"Visiting players," says Dr. Allen, "and especially the officials are being intimidated, and soon he respectable citizen will not care to attend games."

PHILOSOPHICAL NOTE
When the fans booed Jack Sharkey, in his younger days, the Boston boxer used to get all heated up about it. He would snarl and scow at his audiences. But as time wore on, he got so used to it that he very philosophically reached the conclusion: "Let them boo—I've got their money."

One of the reasons why baseball has fallen into such low esteem (I mean that it is not making money, which the magnates seem to think it a low estate) is that the old customer who used to buy everything has been disappearing from the park.

The rabid partisan who used to be no longer finds much to be said about baseball. Crowds at ball games these days have become orderly—and small.

Aside from the financial aspects of the boo, its value as a character builder hardly can be gained. The young man who competes in the public eye must be prepared for public criticism, and if he can't take it, there is a weak spot in his armor.

THE COLD WORLD
Educators assure youth that it is a cold, cold world into which they step at graduation (even the assets are all frozen up this year). Your young undergrad who learns to take a boo or two with philosophical reflection has learned a lesson from the cold, cold world even before he is told all about it at commencement.

Booing, it seems to me, is a fine thing.
